David Light

David Light, Co-Founder and President of Valisure, is a biotech entrepreneur and scientist with over 16 years of broad experience in the field. A graduate of Yale University, David studied molecular biology and has worked in various scientific and business roles at start-ups like Synthetic Genomics, Ion Torrent, and Valisure. At Ion Torrent, David developed core technologies that directly led to the semiconductor DNA sequencing company's acquisition by Life Technologies and ran its flagship technology programs through development and global commercialization into the #2 sequencing technology in the world. As a Founder and President of Valisure, an independent laboratory and partner for quality that chemically analyzes and certifies the chemical composition of medications and healthcare products before they reach consumers, David helped fund and invent the core technology and led its entry and impact into the market.

Lori Mayall

Lori is Senior Associate General Counsel and Head of Anti-Counterfeiting/Global Product Security at Gilead Sciences, Inc. She has been with Gilead for more than a decade and has been a practicing intellectual property attorney for over fifteen years. Prior to Gilead, she was at Cooley, LLP in Palo Alto, California.

She has dedicated her career to protecting consumers from confusion and fraud. She believes her current role, in protecting patients, is by far the most rewarding and the most challenging. She is a firm believer in collaboration, inclusion, and diversity and, now more than ever, appreciates the well-known phrase: “it takes a village.”
